

Last week, when I was packing my bags to go to the Angoulême International Comics Festival, I kept having to explain to people — even comics people — what it was. Now that I'm back, it's not a problem any more. This year's selection of Bill Watterson as the winner of the Grand Prix d'Angoulême, [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/02/angouleme-first-impressions-from-a-first-time-visitor/>