

Researchers for Canada's Department of National Defence spent more than $13,000 U.S. on an online survey that asked respondents whether superheroes can fly, walk through walls, turn invisible and perform other feats. We can only presume it was the work of Department H. The Canadian Press reports the questions are part of a study completed [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/12/canadas-national-defence-spent-thousands-on-superhero-survey/>