

In 2010, a time when the Star Wars prequels still lingered as a bitter aftertaste, Cliff Chiang created a set of posters that embraced both the franchise's classic characters and the imagery of World War II-era propaganda campaigns— right down to the Empire's version of "Loose lips sink ships." Now fast-forward four years, to a [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/10/cliff-chiang-poster-serves-as-warning-on-star-wars-set/>