

Conventions | Motor City Comic Con founder Michael Goldman has apologized to fans for the long lines they had to endure to get into the event on Saturday, writing in a message on Facebook, "We never expected 18,000+ people to attend that day, which was the same amount of people we had over the entire [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/05/comics-a-m-motor-city-comic-con-apologizes-for-long-lines/>