

When screenwriter Glenn Farrington took a crack at comics, he quickly discovered that while there's plenty of software designed to make film and television writing easier, there's nothing like that specifically for comic books. So he turned to his friend Steven Stashen to create ComiXwriter, which they calling "the world's first software dedicated to writing [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/06/comixwriter-creators-turn-to-kickstarter-to-fund-software/>