

Attendance at New York Comic-Con was up again this year, this time to around 116,000. Although Lance Fensterman said that with the increase in attendance there was also an increase in space, this space was circuitous and inconvenient, wrapping itself around the ongoing construction work. Next year the completed construction work promises an extra 90,000 [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2012/10/17/committed-artists-alley-vs-nycc-how-i-made-nycc-mine/>