

It is no accident that Superman, the original boy scout, the mildest-mannered, the most humane of all superheroes, always has a dog. Obviously, the concept of a super-powered dog is probably the silliest one yet to come from comic books, but whether it was with Krypto or a more mundane dog, I always picture Clark [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2013/04/17/committed-the-importance-of-krypto/>