

On a day rife with fake announcements and Photoshopperry, this April Fool's Day prank is real (or, rather, "real"): Wolverhampton Station, in England's West Midlands, has been renamed Wolverine Station, if only for today. It's a stunt orchestrated by Virgin Trains and Fox to promote X-Men: Days of Future Past. London24 explains that the station's [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/04/englands-wolverhampton-station-becomes-wolverine-station-for-today/>