

As Stan Lee sayings go, "Every comic book is someone's first" isn't quite as well-known as "With great power comes great responsibility," but it's nevertheless one that comics editors and creators should integrate and internalize just as thoroughly. It's probably much less true today, now that comics are sold primarily through specialty shops (and, increasingly, [...])

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/08/every-issue-is-someones-first-short-reviews-of-four-2s/>