

When comic artists work in the movie industry, we see little of what they produce due to Hollywood's love of the the non-disclosure agreement. It's understandable: Even if a movie is stuck in development hell, that doesn't mean the project won't eventually begin production (Brendan McCarthy originally worked on Mad Max: Fury Road from 1998 [...])

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/01/exclusive-chris-westons-art-for-albert-hughes-motor-city/>