

After years of working on anthologies and as a concept artist, Nicholas Kole is looking to make a name for himself ... with jelly. The Rhode Island artist recently launched Jellybots, a webcomic about a boy named Sam who's enrolled by his family in a prestigious school called the Frontier Academy. Not much else is [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/09/flight-artist-spreads-his-wings-with-jellybots/>