

This year's hide-out-from-the-holidays road trip was, for me, the fulfillment of an idle wish I'd been carrying around in the back of my head for years. We spent four days in Tokeland, Washington, a tiny little town on the coast just south of Aberdeen. The reason I was so jazzed for this is because, for [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2012/12/01/fugitive-weekend-at-a-haunted-hotel/>