

G4 TV, the cable channel that until recently aired the comics-friendly Attack of the Show!, will be rebranded April 22 as Esquire Network. Today's official announcement comes less than two months after NBCUniversal and Esquire magazine owner Hearst Corporation closed a deal to move the focus of the network away from young male gamers to [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/02/goodbye-g4-tv-hello-esquire-network/>