

New York-based cartoonist Gregory Benton has had a whirlwind of a year, with his self-published graphic novel B+F winning the 2013 MoCCA Award of Excellence and getting picked up for a joint French/English publication. However, the ideas for what became B+F were created in the middle of Benton losing almost everything. The characters of B+F ("B" [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/01/gregory-benton-talks-art-universal-narratives-and-bf/>