

In the very first panel of The Movement #1 there's a blonde in black leather and fishnets. Her strong resemblance to old-school Black Canary seems designed deliberately to remind readers of writer Gail Simone's previous DC Comics work. However, there's nothing straightforward — at least not yet — about this new series. Simone's script is [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/05/grumpy-old-fan-the-movement-is-subversive-all-over/>