

This tidbit seems perfectly timed, considering both the success of DC Comics' digital-first Batman '66, and Tom Bondurant's recent column about DC-inspired movies and television series that should make their way to comics: Author and screenwriter Harlan Ellison wrote a (fittingly) two-part Two-Face story for the classic Batman TV show that, alas, was never produced. [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/12/hey-dc-ellison-has-an-unproduced-two-face-script-for-batman/>