

The New York Daily News casts a spotlight on Ray Felix, the small-press publisher who's challenging the joint claim of DC Comics and Marvel to the "super hero" trademark, and comes away with some interesting details: The two publishers have prevented at least 35 people from using "super hero," or some variation, since they were [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/04/in-fight-over-super-hero-trademark-its-david-vs-goliaths/>