

No sooner had one Times Square Spider-Man been acquitted of attempted assault (but convicted of harassment) than another was accused of groping a woman, leading to calls for regulation of the area's costumed characters. "In the last 10 days alone, we've seen two Statues of Liberty arrested, a Spider-Man convicted of harassing a tourist, and [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/in-wake-of-crimes-a-call-for-crackdown-on-nycs-costumed-characters/>