

In June, U.S. District Judge Richard Posner gleefully dismantled the Arthur Conan Doyle estate's case, and confirmed the bulk of the Sherlock Holmes stories belongs to the public domain. However, it turns out he wasn't quite finished. As Hollywood, Esq., reports, today Posner ordered the estate to pay more than $30,000 in legal fees to [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/08/judge-calls-sherlock-holmes-licensing-fee-a-form-of-extortion/>