

The crowdfunding site Kickstarter, a popular platform for creators to fund their comics or other artistic endeavors, revealed today that their site was hacked earlier this week. They said no credit card information was compromised, but other user data was accessed. According to the blog post, accessed information included “usernames, email addresses, mailing addresses, phone [...]” The post Kickstarter hacked, suggests you change your password now appeared first on Robot 6 @ Comic Book Resources.
