

Marvel sprang into action last year to help convince a 4-year-old boy that, yes, superheroes do wear hearing aids, and now the publisher is taking the inspirational message to hearing-impaired children across the country. As you may recall, Christina D'Allesandro reached out to Marvel last spring after her son Anthony Smith told he wasn't going [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/02/marvel-launching-poster-campaign-for-hearing-impaired-children/>