

Christopher Guest calls the cartoons in The New Yorker “the best cartoons in the world,” and for the past 17 years the person responsible for picking them all (and drawing some of them) has been cartoon editor Bob Mankoff. And in his new memoir How About Never? – Is Never Good For You?: My Life in [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/03/new-yorker-cartoon-editor-bob-mankoff-recounts-his-life-in-comics/>