

Christopher Irving, the writing half of the Graphic NYC blog, paid a visit to Cleveland recently, and he couldn't resist a visit to the home of Superman creator Jerry Siegel. He ended up chatting with owner Jefferson Gray, who had no clue, when he bought the house in 1983, of its historic significance. Three years [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2010/09/open-house-a-visit-to-the-birthplace-of-superman/>