

Less than two weeks after suffering a stroke, writer Peter David is able to walk forward and backward, with assistance, at the rehabilitation center in New York. "He is working on balance and trying to get the right leg to cooperate with what he wants it to do," his wife Kathleen wrote today. "There was [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/01/peter-david-is-walking-with-help-would-appreciate-your-well-wishes/>