

According to a survey commissioned by U.K. communications regulator Ofcom, the classic Pareto principle is in full effect for people who use pirated versions of copyrighted material. The top 20 percent of copyright infringers account for 88 percent of all infringements (with the top 10 percent being responsible for a whopping 79 percent). What's surprising, [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/05/pirates-spend-300-more-on-content-than-the-rest-of-us-do/>