

Let me start with a confession: I have never understood why comics covers are so different from the interiors. In every other part of publishing, editors try to make their covers broadcast the contents inside, but with comics it's somehow OK to have the interior done by one artist and the cover by another, often [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/01/princessless-rips-the-cover-off-comics-covers/>