

“See Something, Say Something,” the biweekly comic by David Rees and Michael Kupperman, was missing Sunday from The New York Times’ Week in Review because, Kupperman says, editors deemed its subject matter “too sensitive.” The strip, titled “Testosterone Entitlement Theatre Presents the Man Babies in ‘Hashtag Harassment,’” addresses specifically critics of the recent “#YesAllWomen” Twitter [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/rees-kupperman-comic-too-sensitive-for-new-york-times/>