

On Thursday's episode of The Nightly Show, host Larry Wilmore turned his attention to "dork diversity," and fan resistance to such changes as the possibility of a black Spider-Man in the rebooted movie franchise, or the female-led Ghostbusters. To explore the subject, he turned to a panel that included Sana Amanat, Marvel's director of content [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2015/03/sana-amanat-and-phil-jimenez-tackle-fandom-and-diversity-on-the-nightly-show/>