

Here's the second part of my look at some notable events of 1958: Aside from the loss of a few horror titles, Harvey Comics seemed unfazed by the CCA and was rolling along. They did produce a number of high quality 'Horror-Lite' titles such as Black Cat, Alarming Tales and Man in Black. Their humour [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2010/10/13/scotts-classic-comics-corner-1958-a-year-in-review-pt-2/>