

Nickelodeon for the first time will hold an open call for original animated projects next month at Comic-Con International. “Performance art, costumes, story boards, video, a sketch on a napkin — we’ll look at it all,” Russell Hicks, Nickelodeon’s president for content development and production, told The New York Times. “We’re not looking for these [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/sdcc-nickelodeon-casting-wide-net-for-animated-projects/>