

Spider-Man was acquitted Wednesday on charges of attempted assault in a February 2013 scuffle with a mother who refused to pay him for posing with her children in New York City's Times Square. Instead, the New York Post reports the judge found the wall-crawler guilty of the lesser charge of harassment. Echoing J. Jonah Jameson, [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/spider-man-acquitted-of-times-square-assault/>