

Although North America comic conventions are typically thought of as male-dominated events, that doesn't appear to have been the case with this year's Emerald City Comicon. According to a survey of attendees, 52 percent identified as female, compared to 46 percent as male; 2 percent of respondents "referred to themselves in non-binary terms," including agender, [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/05/survey-more-than-half-of-emerald-city-attendees-were-female/>