

It turns out that scene in 2004's Spider-Man 2 in which Peter Parker used his webbing to stop a subway train from hurtling off the tracks and into the river may have been the least-outlandish thing about the movie. Playing MythBusters, physics students from the University of Leicester put the sequence to the test and [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/02/take-that-doc-ock-spider-mans-web-could-stop-a-subway-train/>