

When I wake up in the abandoned building it's late afternoon judging by the sun and I feel new, like I have been slumbering in a cocoon and am now emerging strong; like being reborn. My clothes look the opposite of new however, stiff and caked in dark blood. I unzip my bag and [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2012/07/19/the-girl-who-would-be-king-chapters-17-20/>