

There's a theory that the American obsession with the apocalypse stems from Manifest Destiny: As settlers pushed west, they encountered things that would strain the threads tying them to civilization. Storms rolling across the flat plains could be seen from man miles away, and they posed a considerable threat to the livelihoods of entire communities. [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/09/the-xii-takes-us-into-familiar-wastelands/>