

Three men who concocted a Ponzi scheme while in prison are heading back behind bars for bilking investors out of $3.5 million in a fraudulent business that dealt with comic book and film rights. CBS Chicago reports 62-year-old Daniel Parrilli, 48-year-old John Lauer and 57-year-old Christopher Anderson were sentenced last week in federal court after [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/05/three-sentenced-in-3-6-million-comics-film-rights-scheme/>