

In late August 2011, just ahead of DC Entertainment's' high-risk relaunch of its superhero line, the company's executive vice president of sales, marketing and business development emphasized the New 52 wasn't merely a gimmick to seize more shelf space. "To be clear – DC is not a market-share-chaser. If we were, we would not be [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/06/villains-month-dcs-own-decimal-pointed-event-ish-thingy/>