

“The novel I would most like to read at this moment,” Ludmilla explains, “should have as its driving force only the desire to narrate, to pile stories upon stories, without trying to impose a philosophy of life on you, simply allowing you to observe its own growth, like a tree, an entangling, as if of [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/01/what-i-bought-may-2014-selections/>