

Here are the final numbers for this box office weekend. Martin Campbell-directed comic book adaptation Green Lantern finished #1 with $53M, way below that previously expected. Film was getting a lot of negative reviews, with couple of good ones here and there (you can check out Josh and Mark's reviews HERE and HERE). From Deadline: "Warner Bros' 3D Green Lantern ($21.6M Friday, dropping -21% for $17.1M Saturday, and only a $53M weekend) underperforms, unable to meet even the studio's lowered expectation for North America despite the higher 3D ticket prices. Green Lantern had well-known actor Ryan Reynolds playing the superhero, yet won't come near that other non-sequel Thor's recent $65.7M opening weekend for Marvel yet starring a complete unknown." Next week Green Lantern will go against new PIXAR film, Cars 2. Expect a big drop, since it's not getting good buzz and as for international numbers, Deadline says: "Competitors also told me that the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=39812&t=BOX_OFFICE_iGreen_Lantern_iOpens_Soft_With_53M_For_The_First_Weekend