

From CBR.. "The one thing Booster does prove to Clark is that people want to look up to this guy," Johns told the magazine of the debut of the character being played by actor Eric Martsolf in April 22's "Booster." "They want to be inspired, and no one's doing it for them." How teenage Blue Beetle Jaime Reyes fits into the picture is still under wraps, however Johns explained the for Booster's part, the hero will be in line with the way the scribe wrote him in his own ongoing series as well as "52." "This guy always shows up at the last second to make a dramatic rescue, which is really suspect...Sometimes you laugh with Booster, sometimes you laugh at him."
