

Greg Ellis confirms below that, of the previous Pirates Of The Caribbean installments, that the upcoming fourth installment will be most akin to the first film, Curse Of The Black Pearl. From DigitalSpy.com: "It should be a great movie. The first time in 3D, the first time with a new director, Rob Marshall, and he was a great man to work with. It will look slightly different because of the 3D element and I think the story is more similar to the first film. I'm really looking forward to watching it myself. It's a simpler story to understand, it's basically a race between three ships. Also with Ian McShane as BlackBeard, I mean it doesn't get scarier than that! All my scenes are with Geoffrey Rush and Kevin McNally and we had a real blast, but as soon as you throw Ian into that mix, it's fun times." He added that he had to stand

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=34595&t=Greg_Ellis_On_iPirates_Of_The_Caribbean_On_Stranger_Tidesi