

Last week it was reported that a stolen copy of the script for Joss Whedon's Avengers was being offered up for sale to certain sites and movie blogs online. We ourselves received an offer from this certain someone. But nobody was ever really sure if the script was the real deal or a fake. Well, apparently, it WAS a real copy of Samuel L Jackson's script, or at least the script at that time. As Chris Hemsworth said recently that if it was real, it was an old copy and many things will have changed since. Marvel/Paramount have not yet confirmed that the script is out there, but according to Movieweb it's out there in a big way!.. The question becomes, "What happened to this script and the people that stole it?" Well, we can confirm that cheaply Xeroxed copies of what appears to be this exact stolen screenplay, first reported on

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=36689&t=Is_The_Bootlegged_iAvengersi_Script_On_Sale_In_LA