

Captain America: The First Avenger will be out next week and Joe Johnston has been making his rounds doing his promoting of the film. While talking with Screen Rant Johnston talked a little bit about discussions he has had with Marvel about continuing Bucky's story through a Winter Soldier film. Said Johnston: "I told the Marvel guys that there is a character that I'm really interested in called 'The Winter Soldier' and that if, 'you guys decide to make that picture I would definitely be interested.' It's the Bucky Barnes story. We talked about 'The Winter Soldier' which is the continuation of what his story is. It's basically that he is captured by the Russians and he's brainwashed and turned into an assassin. But you know there are a thousand ways to go with that. I just think that it would be interesting to take a character that was in 'Captain America' and

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=41949&t=Joe Johnston Reveals He Is Signed Up For At Least One More Marvel Universe Movie