

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/ActionFigureNews/news/?a=28433&t=Morningside_Entertainment_Options_Bluewaters_ISinbad_Rogue_of_MarsI_For_2012

The new feature film will be a continuation of the old Sinbad movies that started in 1958 with "The 7th Voyage of Sinbad." Barry Schneer (Executive Producer) has revealed that is planned as the first of a trilogy of movies for a completely new generation (though still showing respect to the original fans). Heres what he had to say: "I am thrilled to continue the amazing legacy my uncle, Charles Schneer began with 7th Voyage and bring to the screen the Sinbad movie that he and Ray Harryhausen never got to make." "Sinbad has always been one of more popular titles in our library that also includes "Wrath of the Titans" and "Jason and the Argonauts", says Darren G. Davis, Publisher of Bluewater Productions. "It certainly lends itself to a big-budget tentpole movie." Morningside Entertainment with banking partner, Pablo Antoniazzi (Director of the Brazilian Bank) co-ventured financing the film. An all new Graphic Novel will