After being passed over by the networks the other week, NBC has given David E. Kelley's pitch the greenlight. According to Deadline: The project is described as a reinvention of the iconic D.C. comic in which Wonder Woman -- aka Diana Prince -- is a vigilante crime fighter in L.A. but also a successful corporate executive and a modern woman trying to balance all of the elements of her extraordinary life. So, you guys happy that it got picked up and thoughts on the description? Which actress do you reckon for the role?
