

Despite a serious lack of Panthro promotion, the new Thundercats series is looking good. And now we have a date to mark in our diaries; Friday, July 29. The show will begin with an hour long special at 8 PM Eastern and then follow with weekly half hour episodes from August 5. Also, fans will be able to get an early look at the premiere ep during Comic-Con International in San Diego, where Warner Brothers Animation will screen the hour-long special during their panel on Friday, July 22. Here is the press release.. ThunderCats, one of the most beloved cartoons of the 1980s and a continuing cultural force, comes to Cartoon Network in an all-new contemporary reimagining of the iconic animated series. Set as an epic tale, ThunderCats tells the story of a hero's journey to fulfill his ultimate destiny. The series begins with an hour-long special premiere event on Friday, July

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=40530&t=New_iThundercatsi_TV_Series_Gets_A_Premier_Date