This from Heat World: "Orlando Bloom is reportedly set to earn over $1 million for a two-minute appearance in new movie The Hobbit." Martin [Freeman] will be joined by other British stars Robert Kazinsky and Aidan Turner, both of whom are reportedly taking home a combined pay-check that is less than Orlando's. That should make for a good atmosphere on set. Not that Orly will actually be there for that long, so that's something." So CBMers, is an Orlando/Legolas cameo really worth that much? Discuss below!
