

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/bleedthefreak/news/?a=28566&t=Script_For_Kick-Ass_2i_Currently_Being_Written

When Kick-Ass debuted in theaters it reached number one at the box office but was still off to a slow start. The movie still ended up breaking even at the box office and a sequel was questioned but demanded by fans. News that a sequel would depend on DVD and Blu-Ray sales gave fans another reason to rush out and buy the movie. Still a movie sequel is by no means confirmed even if the comic book series the movie was based off is currently in the middle of its sequel process. The Daily Mail recently did an article talking about the home life script of writer Jane Goldman, who wrote CBMs Kick-Ass and X-Men: First Class. The article mentions twice that the sequel to Kick-Ass is currently being written by Goldman: She has now written two films which are currently in production; the latest X Men film and thriller