

This is my first article, so please don't bash me! Anyhow, today I the privilege to see a special screening of Captain America: The First Avenger, and I got more than I bargained for; Spoiler Warning. For starters, Captain America was great! I enjoyed it, but once Cap had crashed and Howard Stark located the Cosmic Cube, I thought the movie was over. It wasn't. After the supposedly final scene, as I was waiting for the credits, a new scene opened with Cap awaking in the present day. I think we all know what happens here, Cap starts to get confused and runs out in NYC where he meets Nick Fury. Now on to the post-credits scene. It starts out with Captain America punching a punching bag until it flies off into a wall, and then enters Nick Fury. They briefly talked about a mission and that they needed to get ready, but

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/spideyboy/news/?a=41935&t=iThe_Avengersi_Trailer_Description_From_iCaptain_Americai_Post-Credits_Scene