

The release of Batman: Arkham City is just over six months away, but it seems that another title is already being planned by Warner Bros. According to several domain names they've picked up, it looks like it may be based off of the popular arc by Jeph Loeb, "Hush". Here's the list of registered domain names: -BatmanHush.com -BatmanHushGame.com -BatmanImposters.com -BatmanImpostors.com -BatmanKnightFell.com -BatmanRedHoods.com Whether this will be set in the same video game universe as Batman: Arkham Asylum and Batman: Arkham City is unknown, while we also have no idea just how far into development it may or may not be! As I'm sure anyone who's read the comic book will agree, it would certainly make for an epic enough game! Share your thoughts on this in the usual place!
